Guinn Succeeds Reinschmidt as Miss SWOSU

DARLA GUINN takes the traditional "first walk" as Miss Southwestern 1984.

As Cathy Reinschmidt, Miss Southwestern 1983, sang her farewell song, "The Times Of Your Life," the auditors counted the judges' votes for the 1984 Miss Southwestern winner. As the votes were completed and the winners announced, Darla Guinn, Sayre junior, was crowned the new pageant winner. Rebecca Dorrough, Woodward junior, was named first runner-up, followed by Sandra Hamilton, second runner-up and Aletha White, third runner-up.

Miss America 1984 Vanessa Williams and Miss America 1981

CATHY REINSCHMIDT, Miss Southwestern 1983, crowns her successor, Darla Guinn, with the assistance of Vanessa Williams, Miss America 1984, as Becky Dorrough, first runner-up, looks on.

Susan Powell were both on hand to assist Reinschmidt in succeeding her crown to Guinn.

Fifty per cent of the competition was based on talent and poise. For her talent, Darla Guinn performed a vocal solo, "Out Here On My Own," from the musical "Fame." This solo won the first place in the talent competition. Guinn is the daughter of LaDonna Guinn and is majoring in vocal performance. Following her university training, Guinn plans to pursue a career in modeling and performance. Guinn also placed first in the swimsuit com-

Rebecca Dorrough performed a vocal solo named "New York, New York." Dorrough is the five feet, six inch tall daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Dorrough Jr. and is majoring in marketing. She wore a mauve evening gown and a blue swimsuit for the competition.

Fort Cobb sophomore, Sandra Hamilton, donned a green sequined evening gown and a blue swimsuit for the evening's competition. She captured first place in the evening gown competition. Sandra, standing five feet, three inches tall, is an elementary education major with brown hair and eyes. For her talent, Hamilton performed a vocal solo entitled "Let Me Be There."

Third runner-up Aletha White, Las Cruces, N.M., junior, performed an English horn solo, "Send In The Clown." Five feet, two inch tall White wore a rust-colored swimsuit and a white evening gown for the competition. She is majoring in music therapy.

During the evening, the Mistress of Ceremonies, Susan Powell, entertained the audience with wit and music. She sang a medley of songs including, "Love Is

Where You Find It," "The Rose," "Over The Rainbow," and others. Powell also entertained the audience with the song, "For Your Eyes Only."

One of the highlights of the event occurred when Miss America 1984, Vanessa Williams, performed "The Lady Is A Tramp" and "The Man That Got Away." During her performance, Williams reflected on her reign as Miss America and how she gained the title. Williams stated that she has enjoyed her visits to Oklahoma because "everyone is so proud of their state." She added that when people are proud of their state, they are proud to have her and they show it.

Guinn received a $500 scholarship and a $300 expense account with her crown and many other gifts. Several businesses in Weatherford contributed to Guinn's travel expense--gifts of $295--and over $400 in gift certificates. She also received five days free ski rental, a gold chain, a free year's subscription to the Weatherford Daily News, and $100 travel expense stipend.

Guinn also received a gold cup for winning the swimsuit competition and $25 cash for winning the talent competition.

Dorrough received a $300 scholarship for placing first runner-

Telephone Service Hike Effects SWOSU

By JANELLE RANDALL

The new telephone service charges which Southwestern Bell has implemented on its customers have not by-passed the Southwestern campus.

President Leonard Campbell recently sent out a newsletter to all university faculty and staff informing them of the measures being taken to handle the new telephone service charges.

Students will find these same restrictions on their own telephone calls. Southwestern Bell will enforce the same charges on all calls, no matter whether the call is made on an on-campus phone or not. The new charges are state and nation wide.

Campbell informed faculty and staff that Southwestern Bell has placed additional charges effective Jan. 1, 1984, for the following operator assisted calls: requests for information (numbers and area codes); requests for verification of busy lines, and requests to charge a call to home telephone numbers. Each of these calls cost the school approximately 25¢ apiece.

Because of the high costs, Campbell requests that operator-assisted calls not be made except for emergency situations. He stressed that special care needs to be taken to insure that students do not use office telephones for the purposes he cited above.

He concluded by saying, "If we cannot control the use and the resultant expense of our telephones, it may become necessary for each department and office to maintain a log of operator-assisted calls."

The campus operator suggests that the following options are still possible for students, faculty, and staff using a campus phone: collect calls or credit card phone calls.

Bronn Encourages Senate Members To Join In Letter-Writing Campaign

By NEYSA STEVENSON

Bryan Bronn, College Republicans' President, encouraged Student Senate members during their Feb. 22 session to join the letter-writing campaign to bring Pres. Reagan to Clinton for a Memorial Day Celebration. The activities that will take place on May 24-28 stem from the Clinton eighth-grade class project.

They will include an air show,

World War II and military aircraft air show, as well as a parade. There will also be a reception for veterans. The Clinton eighth grade class is urging President Reagan to take part in honoring Oklahoma veterans.

All students are encouraged to write our president and invite him to Oklahoma. Address all letters to: President Reagan, The White House, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20050.

Julie Kogan volunteered to serve on the Library Committee. This committee will correct problems that occur in the library and suggest books for the library to purchase.

Jeff Jordan will be the chairman of the Budget Committee. Jeff Trimble, Ginger James, and Jeff Nicklas will also serve on the committee.

Kurt Winden and Ginger James went to Oklahoma City on Feb. 16 to receive the reward of the college donating the most pints of blood from the Oklahoma Blood Institute. SWOSU had donated 929 donations.

A balance of $6,644.45 was reported by the treasurer. Appropriations accepted included the $27.66 telephone bill, $28.20 Kurt Winden's birthday cake, and $28 marquee letters.

Viewpoints

By JANELLE RANDALL

Have you received your phone bill for the month of February yet? If not, . . .don't be shocked! Many of the services you used to get for FREE now have a price. Yes, it is true, even a pleasant call to your informative telephone operator costs you something now. What is this world coming to?

Picking up my phone and dialing 1411 for information is so natural of an occurrence that I practice it on a daily basis. But . . .no more! No more will I pick up a phone, listen for the funny ringing and the sometimes pleasant, sometimes irritant, and often times, strange nasal voice of the operator saying, "What city?" All good things must come to an end, and in this case the telephone operator must become a part of my past.

But, AT&T or Southwestern Bell or whatever "ding-a-ling" group (just a reference to the telephone service--honestly not meant sarcastically, phone employees) are helping the "1411 addict" break his addiction gradually. I refer to the five free information calls that the group has kindly given us. (That's five times a month that I am allowed to forget a number and not have to search for my phone book). But no, even the five times isn't to be granted--I have a roommate. Does that mean we each get five calls? Or do we have to split? Two and a half doesn't sound too bad, it is better than nothing. I might even be able to talk my roommate into letting me use her other "freebies"--I mean, she doesn't ever call anyone that she doesn't already know their number. Right? We wouldn't want our five times to go to waste.

I can't believe I'm that desperate. But these people have me just where they want me. I'm having to go "cold turkey," or worse yet--look up a telephone number in my phone book! Did you know it is next to impossible to find a phone book in a college student's apartment.

For every call I make over my five (alright Cindy, two and a half), I will be charged a quarter . . .and, if for some reason, I have to have more than one operator assist me. . .well, it's doubled to 50¢. Of course, the phone company has made exceptions. Isn't there always an exception to the rule? Well, in this case, "any customers who have physical or visual handicaps that prevent them from using a directory are exempt from directory assistance charges.'

Of course, don't do any physical harm to yourself, there are other ways to be exempt from this 25¢ charge that won't be quite so painful. They are coin phones and hospitals! I'm not suggesting you run to your nearest hospital, but there are several coin phones distributed around campus for your convenience.

Of course, coin operated phones aren't even the answer. Even coin telephones have increased their charges. Now, a local coin telephone call costs one 25¢ rather than the previous 15¢.

So, now whenever I leave the house, my mom will probably start with "always have a quarter handy just in case your car breaks down, so you can make a phone call." I fear I am becoming quite old. I remember when she use to tell me to always have a dime handy. How long ago was it? This worries me--next thing you know I'll be reminiscing about walking to school without shoes in the snow (sorry Dad)!

Of well, I guess everyone needs to make a living. . .but I can't help but wish that it wasn't off of me! Of course, that's just a natural reaction. . .just like letting my fingers do the talking. I guess I'll have to let them exercise by "walking" in the telephone book pages and then maybe I'll break myself of the "1411 addiction"--before the telephone company breaks me!

Registration Booth Set For March 5-6

On March 5-6 a Voting Registration Drive will be taking place on campus. The registration drive is a starting effort to get students and faculty more actively involved in government. Registering to vote is part of that involvement as well as a civic duty.

Students and faculty will be able to register in the Student Union March 5 at the entrance to the cafeteria from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. On March 6, the registration will take place in the lobby of the cafeteria at Rogers and Jefferson Halls from 11 a.m.-1 p.m.

The registration drive is sponsored by the College Republicans.

STUDENT SENATE members Rob Scheele, Sandy Hill, Kurt Winden, and Ginger James display the plaque from the Oklahoma Blood Institute honoring Southwestern's blood donation.

Student Senate Receives Award For Donation To Blood Institute

Southwestern's Student-Senate-sponsored Blood Drive was honored by the Oklahoma Blood Institute for the second consecutive year for donating the largest amount of blood in the college and university division.

Nine hundred and twenty-nine pints of blood were donated by Southwestern students during the 1983 Blood Drive. Kurt Winden, Student Association president, credits the success of the drive to Ed Parsley, Guymon senior, who had been in charge of the drive over three years.

Winden stated, "Ed has played an integral part in the coordination of the SWOSU spring and fall blood drives for the past three years. He is primarily responsible for the overwhelming success of our blood drives for 1982 and 1983."

Winden and Student Senate member, Ginger James, attended the Fourth Annual Awards luncheon held by the Sylvan N. Goldman Center of the Oklahoma Blood Institute on Feb. 16 to receive the plaque honoring the drive's success.

WE GOOFED!

In the Feb. 22 issue of THE SOUTHWESTERN in the article, National Influenza Epidemic Reaches Southwestern, campus nurse, Lynne Young, was incorrectly quoted as saying that students should take aspirin for headaches if they are suffering from the flu.

However, Young did not cite aspirin as a pain reliever for headaches, she stated that students should use tylenol. According to Young, the use of aspirin can possibly cause Reye's Syndrome in persons 18 years of age and sometimes even older.

Also, expectorants are not the proper medication for chest congestion--a decongestant is. Antihistamines should be used to relieve a stopped-up nose.

We apologize for the previous erroneous information.

Miss America Title Everything Williams Expected

MISS AMERICA 1984, Vanessa Williams, poses with Dean Fred Janzen, the director of the 1984 Miss Southwestern Pageant.

By SHALIA WAKEMAN
"Being Miss America has been everything I expected and a lot more," Vanessa Williams, Miss America 1984, stated at a reception held in her honor at Bentley's Cafe prior to her appearance at the Feb. 25 Miss Southwestern Pageant.

ley's Cafe prior to her appearance at the Feb. 25 Miss Southwestern Pageant.

Vanessa, a 20-year-old Millwood, N.Y., native, won both swimsuit and talent preliminary competitions, as well as the title, at the Miss America Pageant. This is highly unusual since she had never before competed in a beauty contest of any kind.

She reflected that being Miss America wasn't a childhood dream, "I had never thought it would be an avenue I would venture down." In fact, she never even considered it until her local pageant director urged her to enter. From that point, she won her local pageant, claimed the Miss New York crown, and went on to Atlantic City to become Miss America 1984.

Since winning her title, she has met many impressive Americans. She credited former president Jimmy Carter as probably the most impressive, stating that the impression that the media gives you of individuals and their actual personality is often quite different. She was also very impressed with entertainer George Burns. When she took part in his birthday celebration, she stated that Burns sang every song in the program from memory--no cue cards!

Can Miss America get tired of the limelight? "I don't know if I'll ever get tired of being noticed," Vanessa responded, "but privacy is a problem. I couldn't even Christmas shop this year. My chaperone and I were actually chased out of several stores by fans. Sometimes I can't even get through a meal for having to sign so many autographs."

Vanessa has been represented by the press as a controversial figure, being pointed to as one of America's most outspoken Miss Americas. She defended herself, stating, "Everything was blown out of proportion. The press MADE me a controversial figure. They asked me the questions."

When asked if she had reached the point that the controversy no longer bothered her, she replied, "After a month or so it didn't. At first I was taking everything personally."

The junior musical theatre major made her appearance at the Miss Southwestern Pageant on the same evening that she made her television acting debut. She was featured on the ABC series, "Love Boat," previously recorded.

At the end of her reign this September, she plans to return to Syracuse University part-time, as well as pursuing a career in television, film, and on the stage.

When asked whether television or theatre held a more esteemed position with her, she stated, "Theatre is my love. Film is a lot easier. Theatre is sacred in my heart." She also expressed a desire to go into recording.

According to Vanessa, her parents have been the greatest influence on her life. "They are both fabulous," she stated. "Since they're both teachers, it has been a burden, but a blessing." She added that their involvement in education forced her and her 15-year-old brother, Christopher, to learn things at an early age.

VANESSA WILLIAMS entertains the audience at the Miss Southwestern Pageant with the song, "The Lady Is A Tramp."

She mentioned that her year as the reigning Miss America has also been a hectic one for her parents. The duty of answering letters, as well as telephone calls, since their number is listed, falls upon their shoulders. They have also had several personal interviews.

If she had one day to herself, Vanessa admitted that she would probably, "Sleep and try to go swimming. That's what relaxes me. Maybe I'd work out."

Twenty years from now she hopes to have a family and plenty of job opportunities available. "I want to have a family," the 1984 Miss America said, "Success is nothing when you have no one to share it with."

Sergeant Major Jarrett Reflects On Military Career

By STEVE WALKER

As he leans back in his chair and pulls the smoke from his rim stained pipe, he seems especially fatherly.

Southwestern is about to lose this fatherly figure, Sergeant Major Vernon A. Jarrett, to retirement.

I talked with the sergeant major and asked him how he came to choose a military career.

"I was drafted into the military on April 1, 1958. What an April Fool's joke! To be totally honest with you, I was going to serve my two years, get out, and go back to ranching in New Mexico."

What made you change your mind?

"I liked the army. The hours are long, but the work isn't hard. The army gave me three good meals a day and a bed to sleep on. I decided that I was going to be the best man in the army, so I reenlisted."

Did you make it?

"Yes, I did. I'm a sergeant major, and that's the highest rank that I can achieve in the army."

When did you come to Southwestern?

"I came to Southwestern in August of 1983."

How do you like it here at Southwestern?

"I really like it here. My assignment here has been a challenging one. I enjoy working with the younger people."

As the sergeant major, what do you do?

"I am the chief instructor: the drug and alcohol abuse advisor, the assistant Military Science IV advisor, rifle team coach, cannon crew advisor, and range coordinator."

What are your plans for the future?

"I'm going to retire on April 29, 1984."

Why retire now; why not reenlist?

"I've done what I set out to do.

I could stay in the army for another 10 years, but I would still be a sergeant major. I don't have any more goals to shoot for. I'd come back if there was another war; if they would take me, that is. I've got 26 years of retirement coming to me. I'm going to go home to my wife and son in Clarksville, Tenn., get out my fishing pole and relax for a few months. My daughter in Atlanta has me looking forward to being a grandfather soon."

What makes "good soldiers"?

"As persons, they are going to have to give up a whole lot. They're going to have to be responsible for their actions. They must be dedicated. They have to love the freedom of the United States. These new soldiers will probably visit other countries and they'll return, as I did, and tell you that you don't want a war in the United States. They have to want to give their sons and daughters the same freedoms that they had or have. That is what this country is all about. We got it now, papa, we're not going to lose it."

(This story was submitted as a class assignment in Prof. Con Hood's 1213 English Composition course.)

Missions Conference To Be Held

Medical Records Accepting Applications

The Medical Record Administration Program at Southwestern is currently taking applications for admission into its 1984 junior class. The program is a four-year B.S. degree program in Medical Record Administration and is divided into a two-year pre-professional and a two-year professional sequence.

Upon completion of the program and passing of the American Medical Record Association national registration exam, the graduate will be able to become an RRA (Registered Record Administrator).

The RRA functions primarily as a member of the management team within a hospital. The RRA will become the director or assistant director of a medical record department supervising 1-100 employees, depending on the size of the hospital and the functions of the department.

The new RRA must be aware of date quality, information processing methods, as well as the new government regulations regarding prospective pricing and financial management.

Specialty areas are also available for those individuals who like working with medical data but are not necessarily interested in management. Job opportunities are good and are getting better due to new government regulations.

Starting salary for new graduates range from $14,000-22,000.

Anyone interested in obtaining information about the program or in obtaining an application for admission into the program should contact Marion Prichard, RRA Director, Medical Record Administration Program, Ext. 4226, campus. Applications should be completed and returned as soon as possible.

'Academically Elite' Reveal Personal Study Habits

By TERRY WADE

How difficult is it to have a 4.0 grade-point average in college? Out of a student body of a little over 4,000, there were 117 students who did it last semester. That means that a little less than three per cent of the students at Southwestern were able to do it. But surprisingly enough, it's not all that difficult, according to a hand-full of the academically elite of last semester.

According to Barry Parish, a fourth-year pharmacy major from Augusta, Kan., keeping a 4.0 last semester wasn't all that tough. Barry, who carried 18 credit hours last semester, said, "You have to have a little luck, and you just have to make the time to study."

Rhonda Tuttle, a freshman from Towner, Colo., echoed those thoughts saying, "Classes were a little easier the first semester than I expected, and I had a fairly easy time making A's." She added that there were times when she had to study quite a bit, but overall she didn't have too much trouble.

Along the same line, Kim Hart, a freshman from Bossier City, La., said, "I was a little surprised that I carried a 4.0 last semester. It was difficult at times, and there were times that I had to take time away from other things to study, but overall I think it was worth it."

Brett Blagowsky, a junior from Weatherford who is majoring in math, said that he studied according to tests. "I really don't have very good study habits. I just study when I feel like I need to, and that means that there are times when I have to study quite a bit and other times when I don't have to study very much at all."

Mark Schumpert, a freshman from Chattanooga, went along with the thoughts of Brett, adding, "There are times when you have to work things around your studying, instead of working your studying around things that you might like to be doing."

All five of these students had basically the same philosophy about their grade-points. None of them said that they really worried about it, and they all said that if they knew that they had done their best, it wouldn't really bother them if their grade-point fell a little below the 4.0 mark.

All but one of them said that they thought that just about any student of average intelligence could maintain a 4.0 if they would try hard enough and take the time that they needed to study.

BSU Plans Mission Trip

By JESSE ADCOCK

The Baptist Student Union will sponsor a mission team consisting of 10 Southwestern students to travel to Monterrey, Mexico, during the Spring Break period, March 9-15. Coordinated by Jim Morrison, BSU director, and Diane Parker, BSU co-director, the students will work and share the gospel at the Bethsemane Baptist Church in Monterrey.

Those attending the trip, contributing their time as well as expense, are: Mark Turvaville, Hobart junior; Kevin Laufer, Hobart freshman; John Carter, Coving-

The mission group will participate and lead the church in Vacation Bible School, puppet ministry, music, and evangelism. Though the members of the church speak Spanish, Jennifer Corr and Becky Albarran, who speak Spanish fluently, and Elizabeth Hulet, who knows Portuguese, will act as interpreters when needed.

Van Gladden, a missionary in Mexico, arranged the trip and the accommodations. While staying in Old Mexico, the students will be sleeping on cots in the basement of the church, living on food and water which they will bring in from Texas.

Lynch Holds Dream Of National Finals Appearance

By TODD CRASE

The dream of every professional cowboy is to appear in the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City each year, but getting there is a long hard road. More and more, those who make it come from the ranks of collegiate rodeo teams after having had successful careers in high school rodeo competition.

As in any other sport, natural talent isn't enough. Southwestern's Micah Lynch, Fairview senior and current holder of the number-one all-around cowboy ranking in the Central Plains Region, says it takes practice, dedication, and confidence to become successful in the sport of rodeo. Micah started competition at the early age of 13, but began roping practically before he could walk.

After many hours of practice and a few unsuccessful rodeos, Micah has built himself to where he is now. Micah has had a good first semester. He is number-one in the all-around standings. He is currently the Central Plains Region Saddle Bronc Riding Director and is number-two in saddle bronc riding and number-five in team roping. At the Eldorado rodeo, Micah and his partner, Joe Bartlett, won first place in the team roping competition.

Micah made several outstanding accomplishments in high school, including being two-time Oklahoma High School Rodeo State Champion Saddle Bronc Rider and placing fifth in saddle bronc riding at the High School National Finals Rodeo in 1980. He also was the champion cutter in the rodeo and the all-around runner-up. At Southwestern's rodeo last year, Micah was awarded the All-Around Cowboy belt buckle.

Some of Micah's goals for the future are to graduate in May, qualify for the College National Finals Rodeo at Bozeman, Mont., to qualify for the International Finals Rodeo this year, and to get his Professional Rodeo Cowboy's Association card.

To qualify for the College National Finals Rodeo, one must be one of the top two individuals in any NIRA event. This includes: bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, and barrel racing. Other qualifying events are: calf roping, steer wrestling, break-away calf roping, goat tying, and team roping.

MICAH LYNCH gets ready for the ride, as the gate is opened during the saddle bronc riding event at the Eldorado, Kan., rodeo.

Loftin Continues His Winning Tradition During 1984 Lady Bulldogs' Season

By GERALD SCOVEL

(The following story was submitted as a class assignment in Prof. Con Hood's 1213 English Composition course.)

"This is the best team that we've had at Southwestern since I've been here," head coach of the Southwestern Lady Bulldogs, John Loftin, boasts proudly. That is quite a statement, considering that the Lady Bulldogs are already two-time defending NAIA National Champions.

Loftin has a 16-year coaching career record of 307-69 prior to the 1983-84 season. He is in his 17th year of coaching primarily women's teams—eight at Texas high schools, six at Murray State Junior College in Tishomingo, and three at Southwestern. Coach Loftin has had only one losing season—his first year while at the helm in the high school level.

Presently, Loftin's Lady Bulldogs are 20-0 in the season and carry a 36-game winning streak dating back to last year. Kelli Litsch and Anita Foster, both All-Americans last year, lead the Bulldog scoring attack. Litsch is averaging 21 points per game, while Foster is netting 16 points a clip. The team leads the District Nine in both scoring and points allowed, with a 77 point per game average and yielding only 48 points defensively.

When asked who the toughest opponent in District Nine would be, Loftin responded, "Of all the teams in District Nine, Oklahoma Baptist University is probably the toughest. In the past two years, the finals have come down between us and OBU. I look for it to be between Oklahoma Baptist University and Oklahoma Christian College.

With a continued winning streak and being the defending national champions, how can the players avoid feeling pressure? Is there a motivation factor involved? "Most of these players played on the team that was 36-0, and the pressure bothered them a lot," notes Loftin. "But now, having gone through that experience, it doesn't bother them as much. Motivation is not a factor with these individual players that I coach. Most of them have played on state championship teams, and coaching kids that have come off of state championship teams is a lot easier because they know when to motivate themselves."

Changing from a junior college level to a university must be quite a change. What is probably the biggest difference between the two? "Recruiting is probably the main difference," Loftin stated. "At a university, you need experienced players. Junior colleges are for the freshman players. There they will have a better chance to play and not as much competition. Here, we recruit players from within the state, usually junior college players. Eighty per cent of our team is from here in the state."

Home courts are said to be an integral part of a team's success. Does Coach Loftin think that this is true for his team? "The home court advantage here is a real big part of our success," Loftin admitted. "I'd say that we probably have a 10-point advantage playing here at home primarily because of our crowd."

Having received NAIA Coach of the Year honors the past two years, John Loftin has had opportunities to take a job coaching in an NCAA school. He explained, "The past two years I have been contacted by some NCAA schools. But at the present time, the NCAA is not drawing in attendance. They are usually averaging 300-500 a game, while we're averaging 2,500 a game here. Until the NCAA schools decide that they want to have good crowds, I'm not interested in an NCAA job." Incidentally, Southwestern led the nation's NAIA schools in attendance last year.

Having played high school ball in Texas, college ball at Texas Tech, and coaching for 17 years, Coach Loftin has had many memorable experiences. "I've coached two high school state championship teams, two junior college state championship teams, and two NAIA national championship teams. The two that stick out the most are my first high school championship in 1971 and the 1982 NAIA National Championship with the Lady Bulldogs."

'Dogs Edged By SEOSU; Enter Play-Offs 22-5

By STEVE COLLIER
The Southwestern Bulldogs lost a tough game to Southeastern Saturday at Durant by the score of 90-82. This loss was the second loss of '84 for Southwestern and the fifth of the season. With Wednesday's win against East Central and Saturday's defeat, Coach George Hauser's Bulldogs will enter the District Nine Playoffs with a 22-5 record.

The first half of the ballgame was ended with the score separated by only one point: 43-42. Both teams were shooting high percentages from the free throw line and over 50 per cent from the floor. Southeastern led the free throw percentages in the first half, shooting a near perfect 91 per cent against Southwestern's close 87 per cent.

Top shooter for Southwestern was Charles Harris with 28 from the floor and six from the free throw line for a total of 34 points on the night. Other scoring leaders for the 'Dogs were Arnold Madison adding 14, Harry Ballard totaling 13, and Tony Moore dropping in 11.

Southwestern had some trouble in the foul department, causing both Stringfellow and Ballard to foul out of the game. The Bulldogs accrued 25 fouls to Southeastern's 18. Turnovers, however, were close with SEOSU's nine to Southwestern's seven.

The rebound picture was the same, with SEOSU's seven to Southwestern's six.
The gap finally opened up to an eight point Southwestern deficit by the game's end for a final score of 90-82.
The Bulldog's also played Wednesday here at Rankin Williams Fieldhouse, defeating East Central 88-78.

Bulldog Baseballers Fall To Tough Sooner Team

The 'Dogs had four hits. Brian Kauk had two, and Mike Moore hit a double and a single. Southwestern had only one error, occurring in the third inning.

Pitchers for the Bulldogs in game two began with Steve (Hoop) Thompson for three innings, and last on the mound was Kelly Gaunt.

Southwestern had 11 hits, with Brian Kauk again topping the list with a double, triple, and a single for three. Butch Roberts three, Marty Lorenz had a double and a single, Mike Moore added two, Jeff Jacobs and Scott Hall each hit one single.

Runs were scored by Lorenz and Kauk with two runs each; Holt, Moore, Roberts, and Hall each with one.

Southwestern had four players in double digits with Stringfellow sinking 25 points and Ballard scoring 24. Other top scorers for the Bulldogs were Harris and Moore adding 15 and 16 points, respectively.

Defensively, the 'Dogs had six steals and 13 assists, while East Central could only steal the ball four times with four assists. Southwestern also led in blocked shots with four to East Central's one.

Twenty-three fouls were committed by East Central to Southwestern's 14, while the Bulldog's turned over the ball 11 times to East Central's nine.

By halftime's end, the Southwestern Bulldogs went into the locker room with a 44-36 lead. The 'Dogs shot 52 per cent from the floor and 91 per cent from the free throw line. East Central made 47 per cent of their field goal attempts, and dropped that to 44 per cent by game's end. Meanwhile, the Bulldogs ended their second half shooting 56 per cent.

Despite Saturday's loss to Southeastern, the Bulldogs go into the district playoffs with a good record. The District Nine playoffs will be March 1-3-5.
